August 15, 1996

Dear Mr. Gaskill:

In accordance with your authorization, we have made an investigation and appraisal of certain of the assets represented to us as that of:

Dygert Seating
53381 Marina Drive
Elkhart, Indiana 46515

We made this investigation to express an opinion of the Orderly Sale Liquidation Value and the Quick Sale Auction Value of the machinery and equipment in your three locations of Elkhart, Goshen, and Georgia as of August 15, 1996. Our conclusions are as follows:

ORDERLY SALE LIQUIDATION VALUE: $ 2,803,556.

QUICK SALE AUCTION VALUE: $ 2,074,031.

NO
2M. ( Our report includes Gerber Cutters, industrial sewing equipment, machine tools, stamping and bending equipment, welding equipment and accessories, machine accessories, tooling, jigs, fixtures, dies, air and hand tools, shop equipment, vehicles, trailers, shelving, carts, racking, office furniture and equipment, computers and related equipment, CAD CAM equipment, material handling, air compressors, air make up units, telephone systems, and all marketable merchandise on the premises of the three locations.

It does not include land, buildings, appurtenances, leased equipment, goodwill, accounts receivable, building or grounds improvements, patents, trademarks, checking or savings accounts, bank deposits, negotiable instruments, software, transportation or installation costs, wiring, piping, or foundations to each machine or the total value of all machines in this appraisal report, repair costs, or personal property of officers or employees.

As this report has been purchased by the addressee, we assume it is to be used by the addressee in the determination of value as defined at that point in time. Use of this report by others should be done with the understanding that no risk or guarantees have been purchased by the owner of the report nor through the fee paid the appraiser.

BK002635

No consideration is given to additional values that might be obtained because of product line, going concern, or other elements of value that may or may not be produced at a sale but could not be foreseen by an appraiser.

The values herein contained are defined as follows:

ORDERLY SALE VALUE: An opinion of the highest price which the subject property should bring if exposed for sale in the open market by a seller who is willing but not obligated to sell, allowing a reasonable time to locate a willing and knowledgeable buyer who is willing but not obligated to buy. Orderly liquidation value is frequently understood to mean the price at which a willing seller would sell and a willing buyer would buy, neither being under duress or compulsion to do so, and neither acting in undue haste, and both exercising prudent judgement.

QUICK SALE AUCTION VALUE: The estimated gross dollar amount which could be realized at a properly prepared, advertised and conducted public auction sale held under forced sale conditions and under present-day economic conditions. This takes into consideration inflationary or depreciable factors which affect sales such as physical location, difficulty of removal, age, new cost, availability, versatility or specialization, marketability, physical condition, overall appearance and psychological buyer appeal.

Inherent in the above definitions is the understanding that all assets listed be sold on a piecemeal basis, "As-Is and Where-Is" with the buyer responsible for removal at the buyer's own risk, expense, and liability.

This appraisal is based upon the following assumptions, limitations, and conditions:

That title to the property is good and merchantable.

That all liens and encumbrances, if any, have been satisfied and the property has been appraised as though free and clear under responsible ownership and competent management.

That matters of a legal nature have not been considered in this appraisal.

That the fee for this appraisal does not provide for or include compensation for conference or testimony and/ or attendance at any court proceeding.

That the values herein contained are good for a period of thirty days from the date of this appraisal.

That this appraisal report is made for the named recipient only and that no part of it may be used or relied upon by any other person without the previous written consent of client and/or the appraiser.

The undersigned appraiser hereby certifies:

That we have made a personal inspection of the property being appraised.

That, to the best of his knowledge and belief all statements and information included in this report are true and are based upon his objective findings. No pertinent information has been knowingly withheld or deleted in this appraisal.

Even though it is the firm belief of the appraiser that the information furnished in this appraisal report and the conclusions drawn from this information are true and correct they are not guaranteed.

That we have no direct or indirect, present or contemplated future interest in the property appraised and that our fee for professional services is in no way contingent on the values shown herein.

Respectfully submitted,

DEFINITIONS

Valuation is a professional exercise which organizes available economic and market data into a logical sequence to arrive at an opinion of market value based upon all relevant and available information. The opinion of value expressed presumes that a market exists, but the freedom and extent of the market are functions of the value determined. As such, the values expressed herein presented in accordance with standard appraisal practices.

In order to develop the valuation analysis that follows, certain definitions are presented concerning the premise of value and the methods or techniques applied in valuing various types of property, plant, equipment, and intangible assets.

Orderly Sale Value:

There are various definitions of the term Orderly Sale Value. While the definitions will not vary to any great extent between sources, the results of its application to the facts in each particular case may vary depending upon the premise of value used. For purposes of this appraisal, the term has been defined above.

Premise of Value:

The Orderly Sale Value of certain assets of the business, as developed in this report, applies to the term as defined above on the cover page. The theory of probable exchange between a willing and knowledgeable buyer and a willing and knowledgeable seller is considered. In applying the premises of Orderly Sale Value for the purposes of this appraisal, value is found in one component. This component is the base acquisition cost of an asset.

The acquisition cost of an asset may be presented by the cost of purchasing from a used dealer when the market approach is practical or from a vendor of new machinery when using the cost approach.

The income is not used in the determination of values in this appraisal report. The market and cost approaches were used to value each individual asset or group of assets in determining the total values.

The cost approach or the value in use approach takes into consideration intangible or incremental costs commonly associated with placing an asset in service. Some may include:

The costs of analyzing and specifying operating and capacity requirements.

The costs of planning the layout of plant and equipment and coordinating the production process.

The costs of locating an appropriate new or used asset in the marketplace.

The costs of inspecting and evaluating an asset.

The costs of negotiating the price of an asset.

The costs of arranging for the asset's construction at the site, if applicable.

The costs of shipping an asset to a given site.

The costs of installing an asset, including necessary foundations, electrical wiring, and process piping.

The costs of testing and debugging the asset.

Once all of these actions have been completed and the asset becomes placed in the service of a continuing business enterprise, the assemblage (As opposed to the individual, installed, ready-to-use asset) is attributed an additional increment of value. This incremental value is referred to as "Going Concern Value" and is part of the bundle of inseparable, non-amortizable intangible assets which are part of virtually all business operations.

The Market Approach used in this report is a valuation method in which the values are determined through analysis of prices recently paid or on asking prices for similar assets. The process is essentially one of comparison and correlation of market data and asset characteristics pertinent to the subject asset and comparable assets.

Considerations including the physical characteristics of the asset, the location, timing, and general nature of related market transactions are analyzed to determine their effect of value.

Generally accepted valuation principles require that the appraiser rely on the same three basic methodologies, each which may properly be used in valuing a business enterprise. With respect to a valuation of a business, the methodologies can be summarized as follows:

Cost Approach: The cost to acquire, construct, assemble or otherwise organize an operating entity, such as the subject business, including all tangible and intangible assets, and sufficient working capital.

Market Approach: Value based on recent selling prices of common machinery and equipment reasonably comparative to the subject.

Income Approach: Value expressed in terms of the present worth of future money benefits from anticipated income appraised and property appreciation expected to be generated from the subject, or both.

The practicality, applicability, and weight given to each method vary directly with available data or known facts utilized in the development of each method. The use of multiple approaches and techniques is generally desirable because it avoids errors resulting from over reliance on a single method. However, due to the nature of the subject and the scope of the appraisal assignment, we have relied upon the market data and cost approach as a basis for this valuation. Also, as part of our appraisal, we have not undertaken a valuation study of the business enterprise. After careful review of the indications of value derived in this study, we have concluded that sufficient economic data exists to confirm the machinery and equipment asset values appraised and reported herein.

VALUATION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Personal property assets were inventoried and valued according to their observed condition.

The values of machinery and equipment, furniture and office equipment, vehicles, computers, and computer equipment, and all marketable merchandise on the premises has been appraised with consideration to:

The estimated cost to acquire or construct, or acquire used, a comparable property, if readily available in today's marketplace. No consideration has been given to any intangible costs associated with installation or locating of each machine or the total of all of the machines in this appraisal report.

A copy of this report, together with the work papers from which it has been compiled, will be retained in our files.
